

The New Jersey Association for Lifelong Learning is a professional association that encourages the growth and development of lifelong learning and lifelong learners in the state of New Jersey. In an effort to recognize outstanding contributions in the field, the organization is again asking for nominations from our network of professionals and participating organizations for the following:

1. Barry Semple Lifelong Learning Leadership Award

This award is for an outstanding individual or group demonstrating responsibility, influence, courage, motivation, inspiration, direction, or guidance, and has made an outstanding contribution to lifelong learning through research, program design and development, publications, effective and innovative use of funds, service to the profession, etc.

2. Teacher of the Year Award

This award is presented to an adult educator who has demonstrated professionalism and exemplary performance teaching adults in adult basic skills, ESOL, high school completion or developmental education classes.

Nominations are due by February 28, 2023.

Awards will be presented in May at the NJALL conference, whether it is virtual or in person. In 2022, in lieu of either the Barry Semple Lifelong Learning Leadership Award or the Teacher of the Year Award, the NJALL President's Award was given "in honor of the dedicated teaching and learning of all New Jersey instructors, tutors, students and administrators who persevered through a pandemic to make lifelong learning a reality for so many."
